Prague — the Best Beer City in Europe

by Evan Rail

Let's make a bold claim: Prague is the best city in Europe for beer lovers.

That probably sounds outlandish, at least at first glance. Other European capitals certainly might offer greater variety, with a few more kinds of beer available. In a city like Brussels, you could probably find 40 different types of beer, including many rarities that would be hard to spot anywhere outside of Belgium. But in Brussels, you can also walk for blocks without finding any decent beer at all. In Prague, on the other hand, good beer — and often amazingly great beer — is on just about every corner.

Other cities seem to have greater amounts of pubs or breweries, but there’s often a catch. In London, interest in good beer has caused an explosion in the number of breweries, giving the UK capital just over 120 breweries today. But that amount is for London’s enormous population of 8.8 million, meaning there is one brewery for every 73,000 inhabitants. By contrast, Prague currently has 42 working breweries and a population of just 1.35 million, giving us one brewery for every 32,000 people. On a per-capita basis, if London were to have as many breweries and brewpubs as Prague, it would need to have 273 — more than twice as many as it does today. (And that’s just for now: another ten breweries are scheduled to open in Prague in the next year or so.)

There’s also the question of price. Even in Prague’s most expensive pubs, good beer remains very affordable, including many imports, compared to most big cities in Europe. (One brewer from the Netherlands was recently surprised to discover that his craft beers actually cost less in Prague than they do in Amsterdam or Utrecht, even after accounting for shipping costs.) And Prague’s excellent public transportation system means that beer travelers can easy get from one pub, beer garden or microbrewery to the next, making it possible to create multi-day itineraries focusing entirely on tracking down great ales and lagers.

This is a huge difference from a decade ago, when it was difficult to find many beers beyond the biggest national brands in Prague, and there was only a small handful of brewpubs. Today Prague is home to 33 brewpubs, up from 17 in 2014, with more opening every year. Pubs like Zlý Časy now offer as many as 48 taps of lagers and ales from every corner of the Czech Republic, as well as rare beers from traditional European brewing regions like Belgium and Bavaria. (It’s no exaggeration to say that you are more likely to find obscure Bavarian brews in Prague than in the German capital of Berlin, to say nothing of rare lagers from places like north Moravia and the Šumava.) The huge amount of options means that you can try out brand-new brews like those coming out of ultra-modern Pivovar Hostivar, which started in 2013, before heading towards some of the most historic destinations in the beer world: dating from the year 1499, Prague’s U Fleků is believed to be the oldest continuously functioning brewpub on earth. Nearby, U Medvídků has been a famous tavern since 1466. In terms of beer and history, very few places come even remotely close to the Golden City.

So grab this guide and a tram pass. Plan out a route to a number of beery destinations or just relax in the shade of a single beautiful beer garden. Work up a thirst or quench one. Wherever you go in Prague, you can be sure that another great beer is waiting for you just around the corner.

Glossary of Beer Types

The following list should include the majority of terms you might encounter, including both styles of beer (such as stout) and specific terms that have been codified by Czech law (such as řezané pivo and ležák).

10° – a beer made from wort with at least 10% extracted sugars before fermentation. Known as a Desítka.

11° – a beer made from wort with at least 11% extracted sugars before fermentation. Known as a Jedenáctka.

12° – a beer made from wort with at least 12% extracted sugars before fermentation. Known as a Dvanáctka.

ALE – generally, a term used for all top-fermented beers; as a style, ale is often used to refer to the traditional hoppy brews, often pale, from Britain and the United States. Often written as Ejl in Czech.

ALT – a type of malty, moderately bitter, top-fermented beer, usually amber in colour, traditionally associated with Düsseldorf.

AMBER – lager or ale type beer whose colour is halfway between light and dark beer.

BARLEYWINE – a type of very bitter and usually very sweet top-fermented beer, usually with 10% alcohol or more.

BLACK IPA – an India Pale Ale, or IPA, but very dark, often roasty in flavour, with pronounced hop flavours and aroma. In Czech: černá IPA.

BOCK – a type of strong, bottom-fermented beer, often equivalent to a Czech Speciální pivo.

BOTTOM-FERMENTED BEER – often called “lagers,” these beers are generally produced at colder temperatures, resulting in ess-pronounced yeast character. In Czech: spodně kvašené pivo.

DOPPELBOCK (from German) “double bock” – an exceptionally strong, bottom-fermented German beer whose colour ranges from rusty to deep brown. Strong and rich, with a long-lasting foam. Branded dopplebock beers nearly always carry the –ator suffix.

IMPERIAL PILSNER / IMPERIAL LAGER – a type of strong, pale, bottom-fermented beer, like a stronger version of classic Czech světlý ležák. Many brewers believe Imperial Lager and Bock to be the same thing.

INDIA PALE ALE (IPA) – a type of top-fermented beer, usually golden or amber in colour, with pronounced hop bitterness and flavours. Variations include Black IPA and Double IPA.

KVASNICOVÉ PIVO – “yeast beer,” a legal term for beer produced by adding fresh yeast or fresh fermenting wort to finished beer, often resulting in a cloudy beer with a yeasty, bread-like aroma.

LEŽÁK – “lager,” a legal term for the category of premium beers, made from wort with 11–12% extracted sugars before fermentation. These are the premium or flagship beers at any brewery, and include the most famous of Czech brands.

NEFILTROVANÉ PIVO – unfiltered beer. Not the same as Kvasnicové pivo, though the terms are often used interchangeably.

PALE ALE – a type of gold to amber top-fermented beer, often with pronounced hop bitterness.

PILSNER – in the rest of the world, Pilsner is a general term used to refer to pale lagers. In the Czech Republic, Pilsner is reserved for Pilsner Urquell.

PORTER – a legal term for dark beers made from barley with a wort containing at least 18% extracted sugars before fermentation. A secondary meaning may refer to one of the many porter styles of beer: dark, often bitter, top- and bottom-fermented beers originally brewed in Britain and the Baltics.

PŠENIČNÉ PIVO – “wheat beer,” a legal term for beer made with at least 33% wheat malt.

RAUCHBIER – in German, “smoke beer,” a type of beer which uses beech-smoked malt, resulting in a combination of sweet malt and smoky campfire flavours. In Czech: nakuřované pivo or kouřové pivo.

ŘEZANÉ PIVO – “half and half beer/ Black and Tan,” a legal term for a mix of pale and dark beers, generally produced by tapping two types of beer into the same glass. Technically not the same as Polotmavé pivo, though the two are often confused.

RUSSIAN IMPERIAL STOUT – a type of strong, dark, very bitter, top-fermented beer, usually over 9% alcohol.

STOUT – a type of bitter, top-fermented black beer common in Ireland and England.

SVĚTLÉ PIVO – “pale beer,” a legal term for golden brews made primarily with pale malt.

VÝČEPNÍ PIVO – “taproom beer,” a legal term for the category of basic beers, made from wort with 7–10% extracted sugars before fermentation. These are often light, easy drinkers or “session beers,” designed for mass consumption.

WEISSBIER, WEIZENBIER – originally from Bavaria, a group of top-fermented white or wheat beers, including beers where wheat malt was added. As the name suggests, they are light-coloured and of a refreshing flavour.

WITBIER – a type of wheat-based, top-fermented beer from Belgium, usually flavoured with coriander and orange peel.
Not far from Prague Castle, the Strahov Monastery complex houses a historical brewery which offers its own beer along with traditional Czech cuisine. The history of the Royal canonicate brewery of the Premonstrates in Strahov is intertwined with the history of the monastery itself, founded in 1140. The first written record dates from 1400, when the brewery was rented out for ‘four times threescore groschen, a pound of pepper and one fattened hare per year’. In 1907 the brewery was closed, however, and in 1919 even converted into apartments.

The brewery was renewed only in 2000, as part of an extensive reconstruction of the entire building. In May 2001, the former carriage-hall became a microbrewery with a capacity of 1000 hl per year. The first batch of beer was brewed in June of the same year, on the feast of St. Norbert, the patron saint of the Premonstratensian monastery.

Presently, the Strahov Monastic Brewery includes three “locals” – a beerhall with its own copper brew-kettles and the two storey St. Norbert restaurant. During the summer months the brewery courtyard garden is open to visitors.

The St. Norbert monastic beer is an IPA. This kind of beer ("India Pale Ale") was brewed for the English soldiers and civilian staff in India. Ale was a beer rich in hops, for their antibacterial effects, as well as stronger, to protect the beer from deterioration during the long journey to India. IPA is a top-fermented amber ale brewed from barley and three kinds of aromatic hops. In the Strahov Monastery brewery, they blend Saaz hops and the American Amarillo and Cascade hops. The result is a semi dark sixteen degree proof, combining the malty bitter taste with a hoppy aroma.
U Medvídků Brewery and Restaurant

📍 Na Perštýně 7, Prague 1 – Old Town
📞 224 211 916 📩 umedvidku.cz

The U Medvídků restaurant, patronized by generations of Prague natives and international visitors because of its renowned Czech cuisine and excellent Budvar, is one of the largest and oldest beerhalls in Prague. The house is named after its owner Jan Medvídek who founded the brewery here in 1466, where it continued until 1898. It is worth noting that composer Antonín Dvořák brought a visiting P. I. Tchaikovsky here in 1888, with the latter noting in his diary afterwards, “These Czechs, how immensely likeable they are!”. When new industrial breweries entered the market, the U Medvídků brewery stopped production and was rebuilt as one of Prague’s largest beerhalls, in which the first “tingel-tangel” cabaret played at the beginning of the 20th century.

During the reconstruction in 2015 the original malt house was rebuilt as a “Beer House” comprising a brewing shop, conference hall and microbrewery. The microbrewery itself, unique in its use of medieval technologies, brews unfiltered beers made from purely natural ingredients, fermenting in wooden barrels. The special XBEER 33° dark lager is the strongest beer made in the Czech Republic in terms of its ABV (alcohol by volume).

The restaurant offers traditional Czech cuisine and beer specialties, such as beer onion soup, beer goulash and beer ice cream. You can listen or dance to the folk band which plays there regularly. A 3* hotel has opened next to the restaurant, featuring historic bedchambers.

U Fleků Brewery and Restaurant

📍 Křemencova 11, Prague 1 – Old Town
📞 224 934 019 📩 ufleku.cz

The first mention of the U Fleků Brewery and Restaurant, situated in the centre of Prague, dates back to the year 1499, when the house was bought by maltster Vít Skřemenec. The U Fleků brewery is thus the only brewery in Central Europe where beer has been brewed continuously for more than 500 years. It earned its fame by offering its special 13° beer and renowned traditional Czech cuisine.

You can visit the brewery museum or enjoy a traditional Prague Cabaret show (by advance reservation.) A historic brew-kettle from the beginning of the 20th century is the pride of the brewery. The feel of this historic building is enhanced by the in-style decor and furnishings in all bar rooms and halls. From the most famous and distinctive Academy Hall, where well-known Czech cultural figures would gather in the 19th century, or the Václavka Hall with its stained glass, to the Knights’ Hall, fitted out in romantic style. Nowadays, U Fleků is considered a place of pilgrimage for connoisseurs of (not only Czech) beer, or at the very least, a fascinating historical monument and an icon among Prague beerhalls.
The recently opened Restaurant Brewery in the Old Town is unusual in its specialization, that of flavoured beer. Its flagship beer is Tribulus, fortified with the medicinal plant tribulus terrestris, and Salvia Stout – a dark beer with sage, whose local name translates as “hag’s ear”. The stylish and cozy interior of the cellar restaurant on two floors is characterized by its brick walls and wooden fittings and furniture. The beer is served with pickled cheeses, cold meats, venison pâté and homemade bread. The hot food is a modern blend of classic Czech and Austro-Hungarian cuisine. They make their own gingerbread and bacon dumplings, and among the weekly specials popping up on the menu are the chef’s specialities such as pork knuckle from wild boar, roast duck thigh or wild boar in red wine sauce.

The eminent brewer Beneš obtained the brewing rights for the ‘Three Roses’ as long ago as 1405, and thus began one of the longest-running chapters on brewing in the Czech lands. The existing restaurant retains the iconic atmosphere of an Old Prague brewery. They brew several varieties of beer and beer specials here. Among the most notable are the Vienna Red beer and the refreshing top-fermented Weissbier with banana and citrus flavours. In addition to beer-tastings, microbrewery guided tours are available.

A combination of the highest production standards, quality ingredients and traditional brewing craftsmanship enabled the ‘Three Roses’ brewery to achieve the status of a Monastic Brewery of the neighbouring Dominican order, and thus build on the local brewing tradition. The restaurant menu offers traditional Czech and Moravian dishes, made from carefully selected fresh ingredients.

This place has a sister, the Vojanův Dvůr brewery and restaurant in Malá Strana.
U Supa (‘The Vulture’) Brewery and Pub

U Supa is a recently restored brewery and pub, boasting not only roots that stretch back to the 15th century, but also a unique glass-walled brew-kettle, which lets patrons watch the beer brewing process. There’s none other in the Czech Republic. The Brewmaster is Ivan Chramosil, a living legend of the Czech brewing industry. The brewery and pub is situated on the Royal Route, near the Old Town Square. They specialize in traditional Czech cuisine. In the summer months they offer garden seating, by a historical fountain.

Národní Brewery

A restaurant and brewery at an upmarket address, Národní 8, right next to the Nová Scéna theatre in the centre of Prague. They brew their own beer, under the Czech Lion brand. Their 11° is a classic lager made with Pilsen and Munich malt and Žatec (Saaz) hops. It has a very full and malty, refreshing taste. The new special semi-dark lager has additional caramel malt. The beer is more bitter, with a garnet hue and caramel and bread toned flavours. The interior has cosy decor with some distinctive timber features. The kitchens offer traditional Czech dishes, cold and hot cuisine (roast pork knuckle, goulash, beef tenderloin, etc.) and several specialities, such as their hamburger or jacket potato. Highly popular of late is the spacious beer garden located in the courtyard.
Small breweries and brewpubs

OSSEGG Praha
📍 Římská 45, Prague 2 – Vinohrady
📞 603 264 390  praha.ossegg.com

This modern microbrewery and restaurant builds on the tradition of the OSEK monastery beer brewed in the Cistercian Abbey at Osek in the Krušné hory (Ore Mountains) region since 1241. They set up in Prague in 2018, in the U hasičů ('Firefighters House') theatre building in Římská Street. This is a modern enterprise on two floors; in the cellars you will find the brewing facilities, and a restaurant on the ground floor; both floors have their own taps. OSSEGG beer is live, unfiltered and unpasteurized and with some traditional Czech food makes for a perfect evening. The cheery choice on tap will tempt you to sample the light 12° Philipp, the 13° Laurentius, the amber 11° Ruthard and the dark 13° Balthasar.

Vinohradský pivovar ('The Vinohrady Brewery')
📍 Korunní 106, Prague 10 – Vinohrady
📞 222 760 080  vinohradskypivovar.cz

Opened in 2014, this is the only brewery in the Vinohrady district making its own beer and distributing it around the city. Its seat is in the former fermentation cellar of the former Vinohrady Burghers Brewery, which was in operation until mid-20th century when it was converted to a storage facility and, in 2001, burned down under somewhat mysterious circumstances. The renovation emphasizes new porthole-like windows made in the two-metres-thick walls between the taproom and restaurant and the brewery itself, lending the space a special character.

Half of the extensive vaulted cellars are used for the boiling, fermentation, and lagering of several types of beer / traditional unfiltered lagers from Czech malt and hops, but also various specials. The other half of the space is used for a taproom, restaurant, and an underground ballroom which is to be used for concerts and other events. The kitchen focuses on beer-friendly dishes in regular rotation, as well as game and fish.

Pivovarský dům ('Brewery House')
📍 Ječná/ Lípová 15, Prague 2 - Vinohrady
📞 296 216 666  pivovarskydum.com

The restaurant and microbrewery has been in operation since 1998 and is one of the most popular beer establishments in Prague. Always on tap is a minimum of 8 varieties of house-brewed, unfiltered, unpasteurized beers, from light and dark “classics” of the pilsner type, through fermented wheat to singular flavoured beers, such as coffee, banana and green nettle beers. Of the classic lagers, an exceptional one is the dark lager Štěpán, which presents a notable flavour of spice and caramel. An absolute curiosity is the “beer champagne ‘Šamp,’” the first beer in the Czech lands which completes its fermentation in the bottle. Beer is also used for the preparation of beer spirits and mixed beer cocktails.

Tasteful and simple decoration predominates, with copper brew-kettles in the microbrewery and a large bar with numerous beer taps. Throughout the day, the kitchen offers the best of traditional Czech cuisine. Beer is used in the preparation of some of the dishes – from appetizers to desserts. The menu includes beer soup, sausages in black beer, rabbit a la maltster, or pancakes with beer jam.
The restaurant specializes in typical Czech cuisine – from garlic soup and “svíčková” (roast beef sirloin in cream sauce) to leg-of-duck confit and roast suckling pig. They brew their own beer called Novoměstský ležák 11° (‘New Town Lager’); unfiltered beer with yeast, produced exclusively from Czech ingredients, using Czech malt and Saaz hops.

The restaurant offer beer flight tastings, as well as guided tours of the brewery.

Sv. Vojtěch (‘St. Adalbert’) Břevnov Monastic Brewery

📍 Markétská 1, Prague 6 - Břevnov
📞 607 038 304
🌐 brenovskypivovar.cz

The history of the Břevnov brewery is inextricably linked with the history of the monastery, which was founded as early as 993. It can be assumed that soon after the monastery was founded, the brewery was also built to go with their agricultural activity, its existence being indirectly referenced in a document from the 13th century. The brewery is, therefore, considered to be the oldest brewery in the Czech Republic. During the Hussite wars, the entire monastery, including its farm buildings, was almost destroyed.
It was rebuilt only towards the end of the 17th century. The original brewery building was demolished when the motorway by-pass to Karlovy Vary was expanded.

The St. Vojtěch Monastic Brewery, which was reopened in 2013 and is located in the former Baroque stables, builds on the age old tradition of Břevnov beer. The brewery equipment is largely Czech made, and the establishment has a capacity of 3,000 hl of beer per year. In addition to the classic pale lager, the brewery produces a range of special beers using various types of malts and hops. Monastic beers are sold under the brand name Břevnov Benedict. The restaurant “Klášterní šenk” (‘Monastery tap-room’) is located in the grounds of the monastery, where you may taste most of the beers produced.

U Bulovky Brewery / Richter Brewery

This rare family brewery concept, which includes a cosy small pub with copper brew-kettles, was opened in 2004. František Richter, the owner, is a brewer and beer guru with many years of experience from Germany. This establishment, which aims to continue the tradition of Czech hospitality from the good old days, has won many awards as one of the best pubs in Prague.

The Richter brewery brews an extensive range of excellent Bavarian style beers, including wheat beers and bocks, plus Belgian-style Trappist or Kriek specials and knows how to pull a draught beer directly from a wooden, pitch lined barrel. Their quality cuisine consists of traditional dishes, predominantly meat and specialities from the grill, including their popular lamb shank, brewers’ beef stew or the A4 pork steak. Because of the popularity of the establishment and the friendly staff, you will not find a table in the evening unless you have a reservation.

Únětice Brewery

Though located outside city limits, the Únětice brewery is a popular destination for both Prague residents and visitors especially during summer weekends, as it can be easily reached by bike.

The historical regional brewery was built in Únětice in 1710. By 1900, it was the third largest in the region, but the 20th century wasn’t kind to the brewery. The growing pressure of competition caused problems which were exacerbated by its location away from city industry. In March 1949 production finally closed down.

Beer brewing began here again in 2011 thanks to the Tkadlec family who rebuilt the brewery. In 2011, the first batch of Únětice beer was brewed and a new chapter in the brewery history was launched. Draught beer and lager is produced by means of original methods using only natural ingredients, without any additives whatsoever. To date, Únětice beer is on draught in dozens of businesses in the surrounding area, as well as in Prague. In the spring of 2012, production was expanded and the renovated brewery bar opened offering traditional Czech cuisine and beer directly from the tank.

“A traditional Czech pub for the 21st century” with carefully handled beer, freshly cooked food and friendly professional service. They have Pilsner and Kozel on draught, and they care about keeping it correctly and making the journey from the tank to the glass as short as possible. The simple interior in 1970s style features long wooden benches, and a stainless steel bar with the tank in use right under the tap. The experienced bar staff can pour your beer in various ways – “čochtan” (‘neat’), “hladinka” (‘creme’), “šnyt” (‘slice’), or “mlíko” (‘sweet’), with increasing proportions of creamy foam, respectively.

Honest Czech cuisine, based on traditional recipes, is made with Czech ingredients from local suppliers. The menus change every day, and include a lunch and evening selection, which is available until closing time. Lokál Dlouhá opened in 2009 in extensive premises which assuredly make this one of the longest restaurants in Prague. Despite its size it is often full and making a reservation, especially for the evening, is recommended.

@ucernehovola

One of the original Old Prague beerhalls is located on the Loreta Square (Loretánské náměstí) near Prague Castle. The Renaissance building with a Baroque facade was built in the 16th century and references to the local taproom appear as early as the 18th century. The beerhall as we know it today, was opened in 1965 and has retained its feel to this day. The simple historic interior with stained glass windows is dominated by the old Communist-era bar, where they offer the excellent Kozel beer on tap.

On offer with the beer are classic snacks such as pickled camembert-style cheese, head cheese with onions or baked ham and eggs. Despite the occasional stray tourist finding their way here, this is a beerhall where Czech patrons prevail – regulars and students. It is usually crowded, but you can always have a beer standing up at the bar.

Hot dishes include grilled pork steak or sausage. Despite the fact that it is often crowded, you will almost always find a free spot, or you can drink your beer standing up at the bar.

The house has a history going back to the 14th century, and a beerhall has been here since 1816. There is a large variety of cold food on offer, hot dishes include pork steak in potato pancake or pot goulash. The local specialty is beer cheese – this beerhall was the first one to get regular deliveries of this delicacy from the producer. In the evenings it is hopelessly full and so it is advisable to reserve your table.

U Pinkasů Restaurant
📍 Jungmannovo náměstí 16, Prague 1 – New Town
📞 221 111 152
@upinkasu.cz

The “U Pinkasů” restaurant, founded by Jakub Pinkas in 1843, was the first restaurant in Prague to serve the bottom-fermented lager Pilsner Urquell on draught. It has been one of the most popular Prague establishments throughout its more than 170 years of continuous operation. The carefully kept Pilsner is stored in stainless steel tanks rather than in barrels because of the record quantities of beer poured here. The quality of the draught beer matches that of the brewery, it is not pasteurized and, moreover, it is pressurized in the aforementioned tanks using expansion ‘bladders’ so that propulsive gases are avoided. The result is the so called “hladinka”, a beer drawn in one pull, as appreciated both by beer aficionados and the uninitiated.

The restaurant offers traditional Czech dishes, using recipes dating back to its origins and is spread over all three floors of the building. In addition to several themed areas (At home, The Upper- and The Lower House of Parliament), there is the Pinkas cellar and a unique Gothic garden, which was established in the adjacent grounds of the Franciscan garden.
